

Navigating Sexual Misconduct Processes

The Investigations Office (IO) recognizes that investigation and alternative resolution processes (ARP) can be complicated and stressful. Here are some resources to help you through the process.

Sexualized Violence Support

We encourage all parties to sexual misconduct complaints to access support throughout an investigation or ARP. Support people may attend investigation or ARP meetings or help you navigate other impacts of sexual violence.

UBC Sexual Violence Prevention and Response Office (SVPRO)

The SVPRO is a confidential support office for anyone who has experienced or been impacted by sexual or gender-based violence. They can provide information, support and referrals in the following areas:

- UBC Investigations
- Medical care
- Mental health
- Legal
- Academic
- Financial
- Housing
- Identity-specific resources
- Community resources

Alma Mater Society (AMS) Sexual Assault Support Centre (SASC)

The AMS SASC is independent of UBC and offers confidential support to people who have experienced sexual violence, as well as their friends and family, who may or may not have a connection to UBC. They offer the following services:

- Emotional & short-term crisis support
- Advocacy & accompaniment
- Referrals & resources
- Safety planning
- Sexual assault service
- Support groups

Mental Health Support

While the IO takes steps to avoid re-traumatization in its processes, we know that talking about an experience of sexual violence is always difficult and can have mental health impacts. We encourage you to reach out to mental health supports as needed throughout the IO process.

UBC Counselling Services

UBC Counselling Services offers same-day, single-session counselling, wellness advising, group counselling, and Indigenous-specific supports.

Understand UBC Processes

Participating in an IO process may impact various aspects of your life as a student. UBC has resources available to help decode and navigate any UBC process, including the IO's.

UBC Office of the Ombudsperson for Students

The UBC Office of the Ombudsperson for Students is an independent, impartial and confidential resource aimed at ensuring that students are treated fairly and can learn, work and live in a fair, equitable and respectful environment. The Ombudsperson can identify and explain relevant UBC policies, make appropriate referrals, and explore options for how to proceed.
